

December 2, 2022

Happy Friday, everyone! It's Rainie from 731, speaking to you on Seal
Summary Friday!

We've officially entered the first week of December, as well as the second day of the month! Everyone knows that December is a month of seasonal holidays, as well as the month when winter officially begins, with tons of festivities and lots of cheer, but let this not be a distraction from our school grades and academics. We still have about 3 weeks before we get a nice break, so don't let this distract you and cause you to lose focus on school. For future success, make sure to do your best and pay attention to your lessons.

Oh, and here's a Friday trivia: Napoleon was crowned Emperor of France on this day 218 years ago. Napoleon was a military commander and political leader from France who rose to power and fame during the French Revolution.

And before I go, take this time to recite the seal team pledge with me.

Thanks for listening have a Focused Friday 😊
